County Health Rating (#14 of 133 in VA)

- In collaboration with the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation
- TJ Health District
 - Serve as an excellent tool to raise awareness about the health of our communities.
 - Just one tool we use to identify areas of improvement. Our health district works closely with VDH to examine and evaluate numerous other sources of epidemiological data.
 - We are aggressively working to address central issues which affect the health of our community—infant mortality, immunization rates, decreasing smoking rates, childhood obesity and chronic disease.

- Rankings are derived from data associated with factors not traditionally associated with health such as education, employment opportunities, crime, high school graduation rates, and the environment.
- Data Limitations: The publishers note important limitations in the quality of data examined, including population numbers. Rural areas, or those with smaller populations, mean smaller data samples. These smaller, limited data sets can equate to substantial fluctuations in results from year to year.
 - The rankings are not a useful tool to measure progress due to limitations in the data evaluated.
 - Because each state was evaluated independently, the County Health Rankings are not accurate to compare Virginia against other states - or our counties against those in other states.
